

International Conference on Science and Methodology

INVITATION

On behalf of the Rector of Gdansk University of Physical Education and Sport and the President of the Pomeranian Football Association in Gdansk, we cordially invite you to participate in the International Conference on Science and Methodology, which will be held at Gdansk University of Physical Education and Sport on 19-21 November 2021. The conference is devoted to the issues of identifying, shaping the personality and managing sports-gifted people, with particular emphasis on football. The event will be divided into two separate blocks: science (19-20 November) and methodology(20-21 November).

The conference aims to create a multifaceted platform for presenting the latest results of scientific research and methodological experiments conducted in national and foreign academic establishments and sports clubs. The meeting also intends to be a specific agora for the exchange of knowledge and experience among representatives of science and sports practice - researchers, managers and sports coaches.

The thematic scope of the conference includes socio-psychological, biological, physiological and technical-tactical aspects related to searching, discovering and guiding people talented in sports towards sports games, in particular to playing football.

International Conference on Science and Methodology

Proposed scientific panels:

1. Identifying talent in various sports disciplines.
2. Psycho-social aspects of sports talent development and management.
3. Biological and physiological factors of sports talents.
4. Technical and tactical aspects of identifying talent for sports games.
